DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 1 recites “a reduced alphabet determination unit” and “a reduced alphabet MLSE equalizer.” Claims 15 and 22 recite “determining a reduced alphabet” and “using a reduced alphabet MLSE equalizer.” Claim 25 recites “a reduced state, full-alphabet MLSE equalizer” and “full-state, reduced alphabet MLSE equalizer.” Claim 28 recites “means for determining, ..., a reduced symbol alphabet” and “a full-state MLSE equalizer.” Identification of “a reduced alphabet” and “a reduced alphabet MLSE equalizer” are thus critical elements of the claimed invention. However, the specification including the drawings merely reiterate the claimed functions of these elements.” Specifically, the drawings show no detailed structures for these elements. Fig. 1, for instance, is a block diagram comprised of blocks with labels written inside pertaining to these elements. The specification also lack descriptions of these blocks. When known elements are employed, a detailed description is not required and a block diagram where each of the known elements may be represented as a block. But with respect to the present application, “reduced complexity equalizer” and “reduced alphabet MSLE equalizers” are not conventionally known equalizers but are described as the present invention. Thus, the specification fails to disclose a “reduced alphabet” equalizer structure that would have allowed one skilled in the art make the present invention. Since the present invention is drawn to a “reduced alphabet” equalizer, at least a distinction from conventional or “non-reduced alphabet” equalizer could have been made to enable one skilled in the art to reconstruct the present invention. Without sufficiently disclosed structures, it appears that one skilled in the art would not be able to make the claimed invention without undue experimentation.

The remaining claims are rejected for the same reason as they include the rejected base claims respectively.
